Māori Health and Safety Association

Haumarū Tāngata (Māori Health & Safety Framework) was presented at the inaugural Māori Health & Safety Conference in April 2023. The framework provides health and safety support for Māori employed in high-risk industries. Since the initial launch there has been significant interest in this framework from various organisations.

We are embarking on an exciting initiative to introduce a programme designed to implement Haumarū Tangata within 30 high-risk organisations. The core focus is to mentor organisations in high-risk industries, enhancing both their workplace safety and cultural responsiveness.

We invite your organisation to be among the first in the country to participate in this programme.

To aid organisations to embed the framework, we have developed Ko Au Te Ao, a self-assessment tool, based on the Rau (Foundation Principles) of Haumarū Tāngata. Its purpose is to assist organisations to identify areas for improvement within their current health and safety policies and practices.

The programme is designed to be completed within eight weeks, and we will provide trained mentors to assist and support throughout the duration.

What we are doing now

Developing and refining our assessment tool, Ko Au Te Ao, for the Haumarū Tāngata Framework implementation.

During March 2024

We will be testing Ko Au Te Ao in 5 organisations.

From April 2024

Our training resources will be designed and developed based on the framework.

Mentors from TRMA will be trained to assist organisations in implementing Haumarū Tāngata.

We will assist in implementing Ko Au Te Ao into 30 organisations with options for training programs. After 3 months this data will be captured and we will evaluate and assess the data and insights and share the findings and recommendations with our participant organisations.

Te Rōpū Marutau o Aotearoa would like to thank you for the opportunity to present this exciting new project. If you have any queries please contact Moira – moira@trma.co.nz
